

Talking Points for Clark Supporters

Wes Clark is a four-star general who served his country with distinction for thirty-four years in the U.S. Army. He has the courage to make the tough calls that will get our economy back on track and help Americans feel safe again – both at home and abroad.

As NATO Supreme Allied Commander and Commander in Chief of the United States European Command, General Clark led the combat action that saved 1.5 million Albanians from ethnic cleansing in Kosovo.

As a General, Wes Clark made taking care of our troops his highest priority. During his time in the military, he worked tirelessly to improve health care, education, and housing for the military families under his watch.

General Clark's campaign is dedicated to promoting a New American Patriotism based on:

- Service: Giving back to our country is a proud American tradition. All Americans should serve – in the armed forces or in their communities, volunteer or paid, part-time or full-time.
- Principled dissent: Criticizing the government isn't wrong or unpatriotic – it's one of the highest forms of patriotism. We should embrace dialogue, dissent, and open debate, especially about the issues that matter most.
- Opportunity for all: We must help all Americans reach their full potential. That means fighting for health care, education and job creation.
- Responsible global leadership: America stays strong not by building walls, but by building bridges and reaching outward. We must work with international institutions and use force only as a last resort. General Clark is a strong Democrat: he is pro-choice, pro-affirmative action, pro-environment, pro-health care and pro-labor. And he wants to bring people together – Republicans, Democrats, Independents, and people who've never voted before.

Everyone is welcome in his campaign.

More and more Americans are coming on board every day. The latest national polls shows General Clark is forging ahead of the eight other candidates. But there is much work still to be done.